Finding Flow
Fernando Calamante

Brain Research Institute, Florey Neuroscience Institutes, Melbourne, Australia; & Department of Medicine, Austin Hospital, University of Melbourne, Melbourne, Australia

Excerpts from the book...
Dear Auntie Gen

I’ve always been quite popular with the gents, and have of late been pursued by T.Max, M.T.T. and F.M. They each have their appealing properties, so how can I choose? Every time I think I feel defined by one of them, I find my passion for another reperfused! How can I cross the threshold with so much uncertainty? Help me Auntie!

Penelope Umbra

Dear Penny Umbra,

You aren’t the first girl to be confused about which direction your life path should flow, these choices can be difficult. Come see me at the ISMRM and we’ll have a heart-to-heart.

Auntie Gen

Dear Auntie Gen,

I like to think of myself as an upstanding member of the community, but my neighbors don’t seem to agree. They keep complaining about the noise coming from my place. I swear the noise levels are low at the outset, but it seems to just get amplified!

Sincerely, Deacon Victor Olve

Dear Deacon V Olve,

It sounds like you’re being ill conditioned. You need to regularize your relationship with your neighbors, or they’ll never go with the flow. Peace and harmony can be yours, just pop by the ISMRM and I’ll tell you how!

Auntie Gen

Dear Auntie Gen,

I think I’m suffering from an inferiority complex… I tried to inject myself into the social scene at the Input Function, but my brother Asel and sister Cat got all the attention. I feel like I don’t know where I fit in any more.

Sincerely, Despondently Seeking Clarity

Dear DSC,

Don’t feel down-- everyone has strengths and weaknesses, and you will always have a contribution to make. Hit me up for a bolus of self-confidence at the ISMRM!

Auntie Gen